Back to School

Dr. Burns was disgusted when Frank staggered into his office thoroughly inebriated. He looked at him severely. "What happened, Frank? I thought we were going to lick this problem by cutting you down to just two drinks a day." Frank dragged a finger across his chest. "Cross my heart, doc, I-I did as you asked." "Impossible. If you had, you wouldn't be in this shape." "No, honestly!" Frank replied. "In fact, when I left here the other day, I went to another doctor for a second opinion - and he prescribed the same thing!"

A down and out musician was playing his harmonica in the middle of a busy shopping mall.

Striding over, a policeman asked, "May I please see your permit?" "I don't have one," confessed the musician.

"In that case, you'll have to accompany me."

"Splendid!" exclaimed the musician. "What shall we sing?"

A redneck felt sick and decided to go to the doctor.

The doctor examined him.

"I can't seem to find the problem, but I think it has something to do with alcohol."

"Well," said the redneck, "then I'll come back when you're sober."

During a friendly argument, my husband asked me why I married him in the first place.

"I was just stupid," I teased.

When he said he was happy to hear that, I requested an explanation.

"People get divorced all the time because they fall out of love," he said. "But I've never heard of anybody falling out of stupid."

Jay Leno was talking to his guest, the famous "Arnold," about the new movie, TERMINATOR 3. He asked about the fight scenes with his female opponent. "Was it hard to fight with a girl?" Arnold replied, "No, I'm used to it. I'm married."

After suffering through years of his wife's awful coffee, the man spit it out and took the coffee maker to his lawyer. Dropping it on the attorney's desk, the man snarl, ""Here they are!"

"Here are what?" the startled lawyer asked.

"Grounds for a divorce."

It's a shame that alcohol doesn't turn off one's mouth at the same time it turns off one's brain.

A young woman greeted the census taker.

"Good morning," said the caller, "I'm taking the census and I'd like to ask you a few questions. Occupation?"

"Homemaker," replied the woman.

"Husband's occupation?"

"Manufacturer."

"Children?"

"No," said the woman.

"Dresses."

After being arrested for robbery, Quinn hired the best lawyer in town.

"Look," the crook said, "I've got nearly a million in cash in my bank box.

Can you get me off?"

The lawyer said, "Believe me, pal, you will never go to prison with that kind of money."

And sure enough, he did not. He went to prison flat broke.

Answering the phone, the priest was surprised to hear the caller introduce herself as an IRS auditor.

"But we do not pay taxes," the priest said. "It isn't you, Father; it's one of your parishioners, Sean McCullough. He indicates on his tax return that he gave a donation of $15,000 to the church last year. Is this, in fact, the truth?"

The priest smiled broadly. "The check hasn't arrived yet, but I'm sure I'll have it when I remind dear Sean."

"Where's your Grammar?"

A salesman went up the front steps of a house. He knocked on the door, and a little girl opened it.

"May I talk to your mother?" the man asked the girl.

"She ain't home right now," the girl replied.

The salesman was astounded. "Little girl," he asked her "where's your grammar?"

"She's upstairs taking a bath!"

Mother: "Why are you home from school so early?"

Son: "I was the only one who could answer a question."

Mother: "Oh, really? What was the question?"

Son: "Who threw the eraser at the principal?"

Approaching the woman at a single's bar, the young man said, "Hi cookie. How about a date?"

"Forget it," she said. "I never go out with a perfect stranger."

"We are both in luck," he said. "I'm far from perfect."

A little girl walked proudly into a dry goods store to buy material for a dress for her doll.

When she came to the cash register she asked, "What does this cost?"

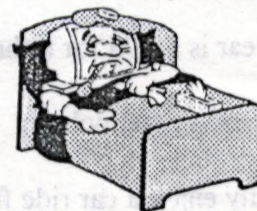

"For a sweet little girl like you," replied the man (feeling generous) "I'll charge only one little kiss."

"Thanks" replied the tot.

"Grandma said whatever it is, to charge it and she'll be by tomorrow to pay for it."

IT'S GREAT TO BE A MAN

Wedding Dress $5000;
Tux rental $100.
People never stare at your chest
when you're talking to them.
The occasional well-rendered belch is practically expected.
New shoes don't cut, blister, or
mangle your feet.
One mood, ALL the time.
Phone conversations are over in 30
seconds flat.
A five-day vacation requires only one
suitcase.
You can open all your own jars.
Dry cleaners and hair stylists don't rob you blind.
You can kill your own food.
You get extra credit for the slightest
act of thoughtfulness.
If someone forgets to invite you to something, he or she can still be your friend.
Your underwear is $8.95 for a three-pack.
If you are 34 and single, nobody
notices.
You can quietly enjoy a car ride from
the passenger's seat.

Tired of having to balance his wife Lucy's checkbook, Bob made a deal with her; he would only look at it after she had spent a few hours trying to wrestle it into shape. Only then would he lend his expertise.

The following night, after spending hours poring over stubs and figures, the woman said proudly, "There! I've done it! I made it balance!"

Impressed, Bob came over to take a look.

"Let's see ... mortgage
550.00...electricity
70.50...phone 35.00." His brow wrinkled

as he read the last entry. "It says here ESP, 615.00. What the heck is that?"

"Oh," she said, "That means,
Error Some Place."
